

Mapping out the Great Wen in significant years

TITLE: The Greater London Bus Map —
1958 and 1970, Second editions

PUBLISHER: Mike Harris, 27 Albany
Road, Wickford, Essex, SS12 9BP

PRICE: £4

These second editions of Mike Harris's Greater London Bus Maps for 1958 and 1970 capture the bus networks at periods of great change: immediately before the 1958 bus strike led to permanent and savage service cuts and before large-scale withdrawal of trolleybuses; and directly after the Country Area became London Country Bus Services.

They incorporate corrections to the first editions and also include new information that has come to light since they appeared in 1998.

As usual, they are in the style of the official London Transport maps of years gone by, with tabular lists of where each route ran as well as the maps themselves, and are available from the LT Museum and the Ian Allan bookshop in Waterloo as well as direct from the publisher. They have been published in limited quantities.
